

Tom The Toad (Treasure Island Version)

Oh Tom the Toad, Oh Tom the Toad
Why did you hop up on the road?
You were my friend and now you're dead,
You bear the marks of tire tread.
Oh Tom the Toad, Oh Tom the Toad
Why did you hop up on the road?

Oh Tom the Toad, Oh Tom the Toad
Why did you hop up on the road?
You did not see yon passing car,
And now you're stretched out on the tar
Oh Tom the Toad, Oh Tom the Toad
Why did you hop up on the road?

You hopped out on the yellow line,
And turned into a streak of slime.

It's clear to all you're in a rut,
We all did see your gushing gut.

There was a loud and awful crash
For poor old Tom had just got smashed

To cross the road you thought a thrill,
You never noticed the bright chrome grill.

Your mind was full; your thoughts were heavy,
You did not see that speeding Chevy.

Now you're safe in the land of light,
It's time to go so Tom goodnight.
